

Valerie Duvall
Wilson Dyslexia Intervention
Policies effective September 1, 2018

Beginning 9/1/18, all Wilson sessions not cancelled 24 hours in advance will result in a charge of ½ of the normal rate for the missed session. The best way to contact me is via text, as I may not check email in time.

Exceptions are determined upon discretion, including emergencies and student illness (active virus) on the day of session. I follow a 24-hour fever free rule.

Make-up sessions are offered upon availability, but cannot be guaranteed. On the days we do not meet, please utilize the sounds cards and workbooks at home.

I recommend without exception that my students read at least 30-40 minutes daily. For the struggling reader, audio books or parent read-aloud sessions count! In fact, recent research by brain scientists reveals that the same part of the brain is engaged through both sight reading and auditory hearing of a book. This daily practice will ensure that the dyslexic kiddo develops a love for reading that is not academic or comprehension driven. Please don't quiz them on what was read, just enjoy the shared time reading. I also encourage picture books for older students because of the poetic rhythm of those books. Poetry counts as read-aloud time!

Services will be billed monthly. Thank you in advance for your prompt payment via check.

Thank you for trusting me and for making this commitment to your child's education. I appreciate you so much!
